AN INQUEST IN SHOOTING

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN KILLS HUNTER NEAR GRAHAM.

RUNS FROM OFFICERS

Henry Burchett, 51, St. Joseph, Victim of Bullet of L. E. Baublits at 200 Yards.

The coroner's jury reported the following verdict this afternoon:

"We, the jury at the inquest over the dead body found near Bethany Church on January 22, 1928, find it was that of Henry Burchett of St. Joseph and that he met his death from a revolver shot fired by Loren Baublits, deputy game warden, of Graham."

The jury was composed of M. W. Mowery, Wiley Lankford, G. L. Mendenhall, Sanford Kaufman, George Geyer and George McNeal, foreman.

The witnesses were Dean Campbell, Dr. E. L. Morgan, Gordon Burchett, a son, Albert Lofton and A. C. Johnson, of St. Joseph and Frank Burchett.

It was developed at the hearing that Burchett was hard of hearing.

George P. Wright, prosecuting attorney, assisted Dr. F. C. Wallis, coroner.

A coroner's inquest is being held this afternoon at the Bethany church, between Barnard and Graham, to inquire into the death of Henry Burchett, 51, of St. Joseph, shot and instantly killed about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Loren H. Baublits, of Graham, a deputy game warden.

Burchett, one of a party of five St. Joseph hunters, ran instead of submitting to arrest by Baublits and Frank Burchett, also of Graham, a deputy sheriff and cousin of the slain man.

The shooting took place in a wheat field near the Bethany church on the Wiley Lankford farm, where the St. Joseph men were hunting without permission.

Farmer Complains.

Ira Munsey, who occupies the farm, objected to the presence of the Sunday hunting party and telephoned for the deputy game warden at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Baublits, about three miles southeast of Graham. The officer was not at home, but his parents located him and delivered the message.

Baublits went to Graham and asked Deputy Sheriff Burchett to accompany him. They drove to the Bethany church, about seven miles southeast of Graham, and found the St. Joseph men with a number of rabbits.

Officer Surprised.

The story told was that Burchett and his son, Gordon, were in a ditch hunting rabbits when Baublits and Deputy Burchett arrived on the scene. Johnson and Lofton, who had 1928 hunting licenses, were approached first by Baublits, but when Burchett and his son discovered a deputy game warden was there, the two commenced running, with Baublits shouting and commanding them to stop. Then Baublits fired.

Baublits appeared to regret the act very much last night. He told the officers he was surprised the bullet had hit Burchett. The first two shots were said to have been fired in the air, while the third shot, Baublits said, was aimed to come close to Burchett. Baublits was said to have told the officers that after he fired two shots in the air, Burchett whirled partly around with his double-barrel shotgun and then started running again up a hill.

Baublits thought, it was said, when Burchett fell, that he was playing "possum," and the officer said he was very much surprised he had hit him. The distance between Baublits and Burchett was said to have been around 200 yards, while there was a report one of the officers had made it 300 full steps.

Recognized After Death.

It was not until he approached the body that Deputy Sheriff Burchett recognized the dead man as his cousin.

Henry Burchett at one time lived near Barnard. The family lives at 5325 Sawyers streett, St. Joseph.

Others in the hunting party were G. A. Johnson, 5321 Sawyers street; A. Lofton, 5328 Halsey street; and H. Glass of the same address as Lofton. Glass was in the car when the arrests were made.

All the men were brought to Mary-

Schooler Chosen Ag. Basketball Captain

Agriculture Department of M. H. S. Has Team.—Program Given This Morning.

Delmer Schooler was elected captain of the basketball team composed of members of the vocational agriculture department of the Maryville high school. He was chosen to succeed Morris Garten, who has gone back to Pickering. The election took place at a business meeting of the club this morning, after which a program was given.

The program follows:

"Feeding Dairy Cows for Milk Production," Harrel Busby; jokes, Bert Blauvelt; "Ration for Brood Sows Before and After Farrowing," Woodroe Carpenter.

It was decided that if a person failed to take part in the program at a given time that members would be run through a paddling machine. A hint was given that the club would be entertained by the Home Economics Club.

ART EXHIBIT AT COLLEGE TO OPEN TOMORROW.

ALL BY AMERICANS

An Unusual Opportunity Offered Maryville to See Paintings By Nation's Best Artists.

Maryville again has an unusual opportunity to see a display of the best in American art, for, beginning at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at the State Teachers College, twenty-four original oil paintings loaned by the American Federation of Arts will be on exhibition for two weeks. The pictures are exhibited in the social hall on the second floor of the administration building.

All the artists are American, but they have had training and study abroad. The eldest painter is 70, the youngest 30.

Maurice Braun, whose painting of "Norwalk River", will be seen here, is a true Californian. He is keenly sensitive to the superlative blues and greens of his state's skies and hills, to the lasting brilliance of its sunshine. But unlike the boastful native son, Mr. Braun tells of these beauties in a far more enchanting way, in landscapes which faithfully depict the charm of nature. His adaptability is, perhaps, due to the fact that he was born in Hungary, and hence his visions of the widely diverse party of this country are unclouded by a birthplace sentiment.

Have Popular Appeal.

John F. Carlson's paintings have the happy characteristic of combining high artistic worth with genuine popular appeal. His winter scenes are so invariably delightful that the public wants nothing else from him. But although he occasionally paints landscapes during other seasons, many months are taken up with his work as instructor of landscape painting in the Broadmoor Art Academy in Colorado. His "Ice Bound River" is among the pictures on exhibition here.

Ettore Caser, whose painting of "Music" will be seen, is a Venetian by birth, a Bostonian by choice. His work is distinguished by his expertness in handling color, and in the well-nigh lost method of glazing. This method was employed by the old masters, and gives a beautiful glow to color. Caser studied under Mario de Maria, the greatest Italian tempera painter of his time.

Jay Conway who painted "Mossy Rocks" is one of the younger artists, slightly under 30, but those in a position to judge him one of the most promising of the younger artists today. He has had a hard struggle, but has not commercialized his art.

Maryville people will note that E. Irving Couse has studied the American Indian when they see his painting, "Indian Camp at Night." Mr. Couse's true interpretations of modern life among this primitive, peaceful race have had a widespread influence upon a public accustomed to think of the red man as a fierce warrior of the past or the pitiful remnant of a vanishing race. But before he could secure the picturesque types which he delights in portraying, he had to overcome their prejudice and superstition concerning likennesses.

AN INSURANCE SUIT TO TRIAL

VERDICT IN ROAD CASE

Mrs. Louisa Armstrong, Seeking $2,000 Damages, Is Granted $50 by Jury.

A suit over $1,416 insurance, claimed to be due Mrs. Anna Owen, executrix of the estate of her late husband, George L. Owen of Skidmore, from the Business Men's Protective Association of Lincoln, Neb., was being tried before a jury in circuit court today.

It is alleged by Mrs. Owen that this sum is due her as beneficiary of a health and accident policy taken out by Mr. Owen in November 25, the provisions of the policy being that if he became disabled and unable to work, the insurance company would pay $100 a month.

Mr. Owen became ill January 26, 1926, and was unable to do any work until the time of his death, March 30, 1927, it is stated. Mr. Owen was station agent of the Burlington Railway at Skidmore and had been mayor of the town.

It is the contention of the insurance company that Mr. Owen misrepresented his age in the application for insurance, and that because of this the policy became void.

The counsel for the plaintiff stated that Mr. Owen took the policy from an agent, H. H. Campbell, who made out the application for insurance by questioning Mr. Owen as to his age, while Mr. Owen was busy at work, getting ready for a train which was due. The plaintiff claims Mr. Owen told the agent he was 58 years of age and signed the application without reading it over, handing the agent a check as he was stepping on the train on his way to St. Joseph.

Discrepancy Pointed Out.

When the policy was received, the plaintiff contends, Mr. Owen noticed a discrepancy, because his age was given at 53 on the policy instead of 58. It is further contended that Mr. Owen got in touch with the agent, informed him of the mistake and that the agent said he would inform the company but the difference in the age would make no difference.

The company alleges it never was informed of the mistake as to the age of Mr. Owen until a claim for insurance was made. The insurance company has turned over to the court $63.89, the amount of the premium paid by the policy owner, plus the interest, which premium was refused by the insured when he was alive and making claim for the insurance.

The jury drawn in the Owen-Business Men's Insurance case:

Clarence Headrick, C. A. Turpin, M. E. Bell, J. H. Thompson, George Swaney, Lehman Hansen, Albert Logan, J. F. Brown, A. B. Crater, Ollie Breit, Bert New, Charles Lewis.

$50 Verdict in Road Case.

A jury in circuit court Saturday evening brought in a verdict of $50 damages in the case of Mrs. Louisa Armstrong against the State Highway Commission. The case went to the jury at 2:10 o'clock Saturday afternoon and the jury's verdict was brought in about 7:45 that evening.

The verdict was as follows:

"We, the jury find that defendant, Louisa Armstrong, has been damaged by plaintiff and we assess her damages at $50. Fred Daniels, foreman."

Damages in the sum of $2,000 were claimed by Mrs. Armstrong for the land taken and changes necessary for right-of-way and a borrow pit for the state highway No. 18, east of Maryville. The jury hearing the case was composed of J. F. Brown, George Westfall, A. B. Carter, Irvin Hanna, Ollie Breit, Bert New, Charles Lewis, John H. Luke, R. N. Bancroft, Fred Daniels, Claud Wohlford, L. E. Jasper.

Other court proceedings:

Frank Barrett, deputy finance commissioner for the Parnell Bank, was ordered to pay taxes on real estate but not on personal property.

In the case of A. A. Thummel vs. T. M. Rush, et al., note, judgment by agreement against the plaintiff on defendant's counter claim for $25 and plaintiff has leave to withdraw note sued on.

Return From Columbia.

D. O. Belt and Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross Fleetwood returned Saturday afternoon from Columbia, Mo., where they had been attending Farmers Week.

REPUBLICANS TO ST. JOSEPH

G. O. P. COMMITTEE MATCHES ACTION OF DEMOCRATS.

KIEL'S RESIGNATION IN

Langworthy Is Mentioned as Successor.—Governor Baker Makes Plea for Harmony.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 23.—Both state political conventions this year will be held at St. Joseph, the Democratic convention February 28 and the Republican March 26.

The Republican state committee, in meeting here today, matched the action of the Democratic committee last week and likewise selected the Buchanan county seat.

Selection of St. Joseph followed a plea by Governor Baker for party harmony, accompanied by a similar plea from Oliver T. Remmers, chairman of the St. Louis City central committee.

After selection of the convention city, Chairman Henry W. Kiel, of the state committee, tendered his resignation, as had been forecast for the past several weeks.

Herman M. Langworthy, Kansas city, was mentioned as successors to Kiel, in connection with the Langworthy movement, delegates discussed the possibility of moving the party headquarters to Kansas City.

Lindbergh to Fly to Seven Islands

Aviator Resumes Flight Friday.—To Land at Bogota Same Day.—Another Official Reception.

Panama City, Jan. 23.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh this week will resume his flight of Good will, and will start an ambitious program that includes visits at seven different places and flights over much difficult territory.

He expects to leave here January 27—Friday—for Bogota and will land there that same day.

Other visits include: Caracas, Venezuela, January 29; Saint Thomas, Virgin Islands, January 31; Porto Rico, February 2; Santo Domingo, February 4; Raiti, February 6; Havana, February 8.

He has not decided as yet on his plans after arriving in Havana.

The flying colonel was entertained Sunday by officials who took him on a tour of interesting places about Panama City. Today he will inspect his good will plane, The Spirit of St. Louis, which has been overhauled.

H. P. Long the Next Louisiana Governor

Opponent Withdraws From Democratic Contest.—Winner a Picturesque Figure.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 23.—Huey P. Long of Shreveport, picturesque political figure, will be the next governor of Louisiana.

Long's opponents for the Democratic nomination have withdrawn, although Long failed to receive a clear majority at the recent Democratic primary, and the opponents could have forced a run-off primary.

For seven years Long has kept the state torn between amusement and admiration. Of the old school of "he-man" politicians, he has engaged in several fist fights and has been charged with criminal libel, and with "selling out" to public utilities.

The Democratic nomination is equivalent to election in Louisiana.

MRS. HICKMAN TO SON'S SIDE

MOTHER OF "THE FOX" ARRIVES IN LOS ANGELES.

HE TURNS TO BIBLE

Slayer Described as Mere Shadow of His Former Sneering, Egotistical Self.

Los Angeles, Jan. 23.—A grief-stricken but unflinching mother, whose son stands charged with California's most ghastly crime, arrived here today to give aid in saving him from the noose.

Avoiding interviewers and photographers, Mrs. Eva Hickman hurried from the train to the home of an unnamed friend in Glendale, stopping there only to leave her baggage, she started back to Los Angeles immediately, evidently bent on hastening her meeting with her killer son, William Edward Hickman, in his county jail cell.

Her face covered by a black veil, Mrs. Hickman, accompanied by her 21-year-old son, Alfred, University of Kansas student, refused to tell of her plans to aid the slayer of little Marion Parker.

To Arrange Visit.

Although she seemed borne down with sorrow, she made her way without aid through the group of interviewers seeking to question her. Alfred, who resembles his brother, kept his arm around his mother to shield her from photographers.

Arrangements for the visit to Hickman's cell were to be made at a conference late today between Mrs. Hickman and defense attorneys.

As attorneys today completed preparations for the opening of his trial Wednesday, Hickman turned to the Bible for comfort.

The slayer, who just a month ago called himself the "Fox" and defied any man to outwit him, has become a shadow of the swashbuckling, egotistical youth who was responsible for California's most brutal crime.

He's Serious Now.

He sits quietly in his cell. The lips once curved into a cynical smile pressed together in a serious expression.

Infrequently Hickman turns from the Bible to his "fan" mail. Those letters, which emphatically demand he forfeit his life for his crime, once merely provoked a shrug of his shoulders. Now they are read and re-read. They seem to hold a fascination for the slayer.

Edward's only other concern seemed to be the arrival of his mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman. She was expected from Kansas City during the day.

With the announcement of her coming, Hickman betrayed his first emotion of shame. Whereas he greeted his father's arrival with a belligerent condemnation of "the old man," he bowed his head when told his mother would come.

Insurance Rehearing Is Denied by Court

Washington, Jan. 23.—The United States Supreme Court today denied a rehearing of its decision of two weeks ago upholding an order by Ben Hyde, Missouri insurance commissioner for a ten per cent reduction in fire, lightning and storm insurance rates. Charles E. Hughes filed the petition for rehearing on behalf of the 156 national insurance companies operating in Missouri.

Chamberlin Off on Air Lecture Tour

He took off from Curtiss Field at 2:50 p. m., for Allentown, Pa., expecting to arrive there at 4:15 o'clock.

Spends Week-End Here.

Visit Here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Miller and family who live near Cawood, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Miller.

John Murrin spent yesterday in St. Joseph.

Democratic County Committee to Meet

Mrs. C. P. Fryer, Vice-Chairman, Issues Call for February 4.—County Convention February 18.

Mrs. C. P. Fryer, vice-chairman of the Democratic county committee, has called a meeting of that committee at the office of Ellis G. Cook on Saturday, Feb. 4, for the purpose of making arrangements for the county convention to be held on February 18, and to transact such other business as may come up.

At the county convention, eighteen delegates to the state convention at St. Joseph, to be held February 28, will be selected.

The committee at its meeting may fill the vacancy in the chairmanship caused by the death of Charles F. McCaffrey a few months ago.

BIG CROWD TO HEAR HEFLIN

BUT THE ALABAMAN IS DENIED RECOGNITION.

SOUTH IS DEFENDED

Senator Swanson, Virginia, Says Voting Provisions Aimed at Negroes Are Necessary.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The largest crowd this session was packed in the Senate galleries this afternoon to hear Senator Heflin of Alabama, who had announced he would renew his attack upon the Catholic Church and Governor Al Smith of New York.

Long before Heflin was scheduled to speak, Senate rules were waived, so spectators could sit on the steps in the gallery aisles. Long lines waited outside entrance doors.

Heflin tried to get the floor at the conclusion of a long speech by Senator Swanson, but Senator Steiweir, Republican, Oregon, in the chair, recognized Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, instead of Heflin.

The Alabama Senator protested that he had given notice he would speak and thought he ought to be recognized. Steiwerc, however, declined to change his decision and Heflin was obliged to wait.

Swanson Defends South.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The South has been compelled to enact laws which have prevented the uneducated from voting in order to protect itself, Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia, told the Senate today. He added the South will maintain these statutes despite threats of northern Republicans to challenge southern elections because many negroes do not vote there.

Swanson's frank speech on negro voting—a subject rarely discussed in Congress — criticized Republicans for threats to raise the Negro disfranchisement issue in the recent fight over election of Senators Smith of Illinois and Vare of Pennsylvania.

"We recognize the necessity for dealing fairly and justly with all classes and races in our section," he said. "We have enacted laws providing for qualifications and requirements for voting which we deem necessary to protect ourselves from a class of voters whose introduction into politics has been most ruinous not only to ourselves but to themselves and the entire country.

No Further Than Necessary.

"We have gone no further than was necessary to protect the south from a repetition of the infamies, social and political, which cursed our section in the dark and dismal days of reconstruction."

"Our suffrege provisions are similar to those contained in many other states which are enforced and declared legal and constitutional.

"We believe these enactments are legal and constitutional, and if they are not, they will be invaliated by the Supreme Court of the United States, and there is no necessity for continued agitation of this question and the repeated efforts to discourage and humiliate the south.

"It seems to me the only conclusion that can be reached, considering all the circumstances surrounding the enactment of the Fourteenth Amendment and the Fifteenth Amendment repealed the panalizing section and that the Negro voters have been fully and amply protected by the Fifteenth Amendment.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Raines and small daughter, spent yesterday in Tarkio with Mrs. Raines mother, Mrs. T. J. Emmert, who has been quite ill. Mrs. Emmert is reported improved, now, however.

ACTION AIMED AT U. S. FAILS

MEXICAN PROPOSAL AT PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE OPPOSED.

HUGHES IS APPLAUDED

Former Secretary of State Pleases With Speech.—Pledges Withdrawal From Nicaragua.

Havana, Jan. 23.—Following up his speech justifying United States policies in Central America, Charles E. Hughes today spiritedly defended before the Pan-American conference the part the United States has played in the Pan-American union itself.

Hughes, as chairman of the United States delegation, spoke before the Pan-American union committee. Mexico had submitted a plan for rotation of representatives of all union members in office now filled by representatives of the United States.

Denies U. S. Domination.

Hughes referred but indirectly to these proposals, and took up the general question of the United States' leading role in the Union.

He denies United States domination in union affairs as he had denied in his Saturday speech domination in General Pan-American politics.

All union members met as equals, he declared, and the United States in no sense played a dominant part.

Rally to U. S.

Havana, Jan. 23.—Two important Pan-American proposals—one regarded as aimed at the United States and the other likely to decrease still further the League of Nation's influence in the West—met immediate opposition at the Pan-American conference today.

Dr. Jacobo Vercla, Uruguay, voiced the opposition.

First he expressed disapproval of a Mexican proposal calling for reorganization of the manner in which the Pan-American union is operated. Its sole effect would be to limit the now preponderant influence of the United States in union matters.

To Propose Court.

It was learned that the Colombian delegation planned to submit tomorrow a proposal for a Pan-American Court of Justice to have headquarters at Havana and to be clothed with authority to rule on all differences between American Republics except those affecting constitutional principles.

In every quarter it was agreed that Hughes' speech at a banquet given by the American Chamber of Commerce was one of the outstanding events of the conference. Favorable comment came from every delegation.

Although the former United States Secretary of State brought up the ticklish Nicaraguan question, it was considered unlikely that it would go before the conference. Dr. Carlos Cuadra Pasos, chief of the Nicaraguan delegation, said his country had no desire to have the United States intervention question brough up officially.

"If some other delegation take such action, we are thorgughly rpepared with complete documentation to present the view of our government," Dr. Pasos said. He was greatly pleased with the Hughes speech.

In Nicaragua by Request.

Hughes referred to the present intervention in Nicargue by saying:

"We are, at this moment, in Nicaragua but what we are doing there and the commitments we have made are at the request of both parties and in the interest of peace and order and a fair election. We have no desire to stay. We wish Nicaragua to be strong, prosperous and independent. We entered to meet a temporary but imperative exigency; and we shall retire as soon as it is possible."

An Inquest in Shooting

Only quick action by Deputy Burchett, it was said, prevented gun play by the slain man's son after the shooting.

John Rasco of Barnard, deputy sheriff, arrived on the scene several minutes after the shooting. Dr. E. L. Morgan of Graham was called but as Burchett's death was instant, he merely viewed the body. The body was then taken to the Campbell Undertaking Parlors at Barnard.

Appointed Last August.

John A. Wallace, district deputy game warden, said Baublits was appointed a deputy game warden last August. Wallace said his work had been very satisfactory, that he was a good worker and efficient. It was rumored that Baublits had been rather disposed to "show his authority" at times.

A coroner's jury was ordered by Dr. Frank C. Wallis, for 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Bethany Church, near the scene of the shooting. As Frank Burchett, deputy sheriff, is also constable of Hughes township, in which the killing occurred, he was ordered to summon a jury of six men of that township. The jury was taken to Barnard where it viewed the body and then met at the Bethany Church.

George P. Wright, prosecuting attorney, was present at the inquest. Among some of the witnesses were Frank Burchett, Johnson, Lofton and the dead man's son, Gordon Burchett.

There was considerable censure of Baublits act, some persons saying there was no justification for the killing. While Burchett was guilty of hunting without a 1928 license, and also of discharging firearms on Sunday, these are minor offenses and the penalty is only a small fine up to $10. A 1927 hunting license was found in his pocket.

Lives Near Barnard.

Lee Burchett of Sioux City, Ia., son of Henry Burchett, passed through Maryville this afternoon on his way to Barnard where the body remained today.

Burchett is survived by his widow and five children.

In addition to Lee and Gordon Burchett, they are Donald Burchett of Kansas City, and Misses Gladys and Irene Burchett, St. Joseph. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Burchett of Jonesville, Va., also survive.

The Burchetts lived in and around the Barnard community for some four or five years. They left there about ten years ago for St. Joseph, which has since been their home.

Gospel Team Visits Parnell and Guilford

College Students in Charge of Services Yesterday Morning and Last Night.

The College Y. M. C. A. gospel team visited the First M. E. Church at Parnell yesterday morning and the M. E. Church, South, at Guilford, last night, giving talks on "Practical Christianity."

The members of the team, with Leland Medsker as leader, were dinner guests of the congregation at Parnell. Verdo Barnhouse spoke on "Practical Christianity in Regard to the Child and in the Home;" Earl Jones spoke on "Practical Christianity in Business;" and Clyde Rowland talked on "Practical Christianity in International Affairs."

Gerald Carrol, manager of the team, was in charge of services at Guilford in the evening. Fred Smith spoke on Christianity in connection with the child and the home; Leland Medsker spoke on Christianity in connection with business and Clyde Rowland's talk again was about Christianity in international affairs. Chilton Ross led in the singing and sang a solo. The team was entertained at a lunch at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Medsker.

Next Sunday morning the gospel team will go to Gaynor and on February 5 be at Fairfax.

Religious Activity Has 3 Foundations

"To Do Justly, Love Mercy and Walk Humbly With God," Are Requirements, Says Mitchell.

The whole question of religious activity is found in three things, the Rev. R. A. Mitchell declared in a sermon yesterday morning at the M. E. Church South. These, he said, are:

1. To do justly.
2. To love mercy.
3. To walk humbly with our God.

"There is nothing old fashioned about the Parable of the Ten Talents," the Reverend Mr. Mitchell said. "The thought that God has placed some special gift at our disposal and requires that we make the most of it is a thing that makes life worth while. It is a pity that some bury their talent.

"God wants us to act like we were made in the image of God and use what we have to make this world a better place in which to live.

"One of the great gains this world has made is to be found in its kindness to dumb animals. It may be attributed to the teaching of the church, the Humane Society, the Boy Scouts, and the Girl Scouts. But to love mercy is something more than being kind to dumb animals. There is the child that is not getting a fair start in life. There are those who are living in conditions where happiness is impossible. There are the preachers of the gospel who have been worn out in the service of the church. What is our attitude and our thoughts regarding them?

"To love mercy does not mean that you merely leave other people alone and do not torment them. To love mercy makes you act for the good of others.

"I do not think you will do justly or love mercy unless you walk with God. We are told that Enoch walked with God. It ought to be a thing that could be said of any of us. Walking with God is something that is within the reach of all of us.

"There is no place on God's requirements for the man who thinks that he must be able to understand and explain and prove every item of his religious belief. You cannot fully understand God's ways. He has shown us His character in Jesus. When you get to the place where you can stand aside and 'see yourself go by', you are not very far from the kingdom of God."

Best Work Done in the Ranks, Says Lakin

Christian Leaders Need Not Be Preachers Nor Possessed of Learning, Minister Declares.

"Equipment for Personal Work" was the theme of the Rev. L. E. Lakin in his sermon Sunday morning at the First Christian Church.

"You don't need," he said, "to be a preacher in order to be a reaper in the great harvest field. It is not at all necessary for one to equip himself for the ministry in order to do effective work. What we need today is Christianity of the real, genuine sort in the field, in the kitchen, in the shop, on the street, and at church.

"I wonder if we have not magnified the ministry and the mission field as if these did not offer the only real opportunities in life? The implication has been that all other work is insignificant. We are wrong!

"I plead for service without regard to position.

"I have discouraged a good many men from entering the ministry. You may be shocked at that. But I have lived a few years, and I can count the Sundays I have missed from the pulpit on my fingers in 25 years. Few men can stand the gaff. And fewer men will. It is not wise to thrust a man into a place that he cannot or will not fill.

"He who would be a winner of souls does not need knowledge. If I be of any service whatever I must know God—and know Him as He is revealed in Jesus Christ. Not as the world knows Him for that knowledge is superficial, it has no life giving power. But the knowledge of God that is experimental is the great essential.

"He who is blind to the fact of sin, its awfulness, its heinousness, and its sinfulness is useless as a winner of souls. He who looks upon everything as beautiful and happy is blind, and if the blind go forth as leaders the ditch only yawns before.

"Faith in the gospel is a qualification that must not be overlooked if we would witness effectively.

"Some plead political redemption as a solution to our ills. Political redemption, of course! But political corruption is the result of a diseased body. To cure the eruption is only temporary helpfulness. The remedy that cures must reach the source of national life—yes, the heart. And the gospel of Christ is the only solvent.

"Some plead the cause of education. Education, of course! But education is an uncertain thing. It may help or it may hurt. We are told that "the union of high intelligence and low desires is responsible for nine-tenths of the crime of the world." Here again the source needs purification. And the gospel is the only purifying agency.

"The pulpit smacks of professionalism in spite of anything the preacher can do. And the door of opportunity closes to the preacher in proportion to the prevalence of his sentiment. The pew suffers no such handicap. Just to be a disciple in the ranks then offers the great opportunity to witness."

Glee Club Did Well, Director Declares

Decision a Disappointment to Charles R. Gardner.—To Plan Tour of Northwest Missouri.

The Men's Glee Club of the State Teachers College, in concert at Kansas City last Friday night, was at itsbest and sang better than ever before. That opinion was expressed today by Charles R. Gardner, of the College Conservatory of Music, the glee club director.

"It is an organization the College may well be proud of for they represented the institution to the best of their musical ability. I think everyone is generally satisfied," Mr. Garnder said.

The decision was a keen disappointment to Mr. Gardner, as it would be to any other director. But that disappointment has not given rise to any ill feeling.

While in Kansas City the Glee Club was housed at the Baltimore hotel. A number of conservatory students were in Kansas City for the contest. Miss Helen Dvorak, a faculty member was there.

As the contest selection the Glee Club sang Samuel R. Gaines' "Out Where the West Begins." Three choice selections were permitted each organization and the Maryville club sang, "O Saerum Convivium," by Viadana in Latin, "Matona Lovely Maiden," by di Lasso, and, "Dainty, Fine, Sweet Nymph," by Monley.

Mr. Gardner said today plans would be made to take the Glee Club on a tour of the Northwest section of the state this spring but no steps had been taken to draw up an itinerary.

SAFE·INVESTMENT·DAY

Make Your Money Work For You

The last day of National Thrift Week has been appropriately set aside as Safe Investment Day, because the chief end and aim of saving, and thrift in general is investment of accumulated money to provide a permanent income.

A savings account is necessary to provide money instantly available for emergencies, and to accumulate a sum large enough to be suitable for investment.

A savings account is not intended as a repository for large sums of money. Over an amount large enough to take care of unexpected contingencies, your money should be drawn out and invested in good, safe securities.

But how, you ask, is one to know safe from unsafe securities.

Whenever you have five hundred or a thousand dollars over your regular savings account, we recommend that you come to our officers and let them guide your investment. They will willingly advise you.

Noted Works on View Here

scape painter. Mr. Warren has pictured the beauties of many forests and woods, sunsets seen through pine groves being a favorite subject with him. "The Twin Pine" is the subject of his painting in the collection here.

Of Impressionist School.

One of the foremost exponents of the Impressionist School of Paris is Frederick Carl Frieseke whose paintings of "Repose," and the "Girl Sewing" are to be exhibited. His works of art are decorative in type, and, if studied, their forms become brilliant detached spots of color. He is keenly interested in painting brilliant sunshine and its effects upon green foliage and bright flowers, although he does not paint the latter in detailed form, but merely as splashes of color in light.

Maurice Fromkes was born in Russia in 1872, but as an artist he belongs wholly to America, for he received his art education at the National Academy of Design under Ward and Low. Two of his paintings are in permanent collections in New Orleans, at the Delgado Museum and Newcomb College. His "Peonies" is included in the collection here.

In viewing Albert Groll's painting of "Acoma Valley," it will be seen that he is primarily a landscape painter, noted for the rare dignity and beauty of his desert scenes, and particularily their cloud effects. He catches the brilliance of that dry, clear atmosphere to perfection.

Many characteristics of the artist, Charles W. Hawthorne will be evidenced in his painting of "The Shipwright." For more than fifteen years he has interpreted the very soul of the hard-working fisherfolk, reticent, serious-minded toilers of the sea, in a series of paintings which are at once portraits of individuals and portraits of types. Many of his subjects are not comely, and their seamed faces and gnarled hands speak mutely of long lives of hard labor. They are usually clad in the plain, course clothes of everyday life, and are engaged in everyday tasks. But they are eloquent of the hopes and longings and the patient resignation of humanity in general, and they possess a lasting charm and deep truthfulness which appeals more genuinely than "pretty" painting.

Fond of Winter Subjects.

"Cascade," will show that its artist, Aldro T. Hibbard, is particularly fond of winter subjects in landscape. He studied under De Camp, Major and Tarbell. He won his first award in 1920, since when he has received several other honors.

William S. Horton is an American artist the better known throughout Europe, due to his long residence there. He studied in Paris at the Julian Academy under Laurens and has won honors in the Paris Salon. The French government owns several pieces of his work. Mr. Horton is a unique impressionist, chiefly interested in the poetic and reflecting aspects of landscape and the passing show. He is an exceptionally gifted colorist. His painting of the "Bowl of Flowers" will be seen here.

The audience that looks upon the painting of "Summer in the Berkshires," will say John Huffington improvises his paintings as a musician improves music. He is altogether an inspirational painter, his endeavors directed almost wholly by his subconscious intuition. He will begin to paint landscapes, perhaps, and without his volition, it will be metamorphosed into a marine because of some relationship suggested by a certain stretch of scenery. He has at various times been an opera singer, a Western ranchman and a circus attache.

In "The Bathers," will be seen the prodigal use of color which distinguishes the paintings of Ernest Lawson. At the age of 18 he was working in Mexico City, as an assistant engineering draughtsman, when the idea to enter the art vocation entered into his head. He learned to paint in Kansas City, where he excelled his master.

Likes Water Scenes.

River and harbor scenes, the fishing schooners of Gloucester docked at picturesque boat landings, and the quaint street scenes of that delightful summer art colony are the subjects most generally associated to the artist Hayley Lever and to be noted in his painting of "Morning in the Harbor."

Arthur Meltzer is primarily a landscape painter, who works both indoors and out. He produces an occasional still-life. Many of his works have been exhibited in various states and he has been the recipient of many awards. His painting of "Old Bridge, Winter," is in the collection at the College.

"Sunny Morning," painted by R. E. Miller, is the best known in the collection. This piece of work is valued at $2,000. Mr. Miller acquired most of his education in art at Paris, under Laurens and Constant, and was for many years a prominent figure in the American Colony there. From the very off-set his career has been phenomenally a success. His first painting was exhibited at the Paris Salon, receiving third class medal. He has been honored at the Pan American Exposition at Buffalo, the St. Louis Exposition, and in many art institutes. He has paintings in Rome and in the private collection of are belonging to the King of Italy.

A Poetic Interpreter.

Herman Dudley Murphy is a poetic interpreter of nature's beauty, which he knows in all of its manifestations, from his extensive travels in Italy, Holland, France, the Azores, the West Indies, and all parts of the United States. This charm is discerned in whatever he paints, for he displays equal skill in portraits, landscapes and marines, flower studies and still-life. "Autumn Afternoon," is the subject of one of his paintings to be seen here.

Robert Reid's painting of the "Girl on Hillside" will be seen in the collection on exhibition here two weeks. Mr. Reid studied art in Boston, New York, and in Paris under Lefebvre and Boulanger. He was also a member of that once famous organization, "The American Painters." He has been honored by several notable academies of art.

Gardner Symons is a painter of undoubted sincerity, who lives in the Berkshires and derives most of his motifs from his surroundings. From the Metropolitan Museum in New York City to the Los Angeles Museum in California, there is hardly a leading public collection which does not boast of a Robert Reid painting. His "Deerfield River" will be exhibited here.

Comes From Arkansas.

Arthur Bolin, Gravette, Ark., has arrived at Barnard called there by the serious illness of Pleas Bolin, who has been seriously ill for three weeks Mr. Bolin was reported some better today. Arthur Bolin taught in the schools of Nodaway County about 25 years ago.

Meetings at Guilford.

Revival meetings will be started at the M. E. Church, South, at Guilford tonight. The Rev. T. M. Taylor of the M. E. Church, South, Elmo, will conduct the services.

Outlaw's Memoirs Tell of Plot for Escape of Talbott Boys

Polk Wells, Buchanan County's most celebrated outlaw, was written up in the St. Joseph News-Press Saturday and mention was made of how Wells plotted for the Talbott boys escape after the celebrated Nodaway County murder.

Wells' exploits are told in a crude and disconnected biography written by the Missouri bandit during his incarceration at Fort Madison, Ia., and published by G. A. Warnica, now dead.

In the mention about the Talbott boys, Wells tells of having been confined in the county jail in St. Joseph on some charge when early in February, 1881, the Talbott brothers, who murdered their father, a prominent physician in Nodaway County, and who had been sentenced to be hanged, were brought to St. Joseph for keeping until the date set for their execution.

Mrs. Talbott came to see her sons and Polk proposed to her to assist them to escape and see them safely out of the country, if she would put up $1,000, which would secure his release from jail, and furnish money with with which to buy arms and horses, and defray traveling expenses. His story is that Mrs. Talbott returned to the jail the next morning and handed him a belt in which was secreted $1,020, with orders to call at her home as soon as he was liberated. This time Polk's attorney was Sam B. Green, who, he says, desposited the money in the Saxton Bank, the Col. Abe Saxton signed the bond for Wells' release.

The next day, Polk says, he appeared at the Talbott home, near Maryville, and was provided with more money. After he had assembled an outfit with which to make the escape when the boys were on the outside, he went to the jail and discovered that the sheriff's suspicions had been aroused and a heavy guard had been placed over the prisoners.

A picture of the "House of Seven Gables," the former home of Dr. Perry Talbott, near Arkoe, appeared yesterday in the rotogravure section of the Kansas City Star. The newspaper made mention of the finding of gold in its walls, saying that the discovery had been made last week, whereas it really took place twenty-one years ago. The Star also said the house had been torn down. It has not been torn down but divided, part of the structure still standing on the farm of Ret Corrough and the other on that of his brother, Fay Corrough.

Second Number to Be Given at First M. E. Church.—Officers Meet Afterward.

The second number in the lecture course in religious education will be given tonight at 6:45 to 7:45 at the First Methodist Church. The subject of the main lecture is "The Rise of the International Sunday School Association and of the Uniform and Graded Helps."

Anyone may join this class, the Rev. W. S. Woodhull announces. No text book study is required. The class begins and closes promptly on time each Monday night.

The superintendents of the Sunday school and representatives of various societies of the Church will hold a meeting at 7:45 to study a plan of systematic visiting and to consider other matters of importance to the work of the Church.

Out on the Pacific Coast a short time ago, two runs were made that proved the Whippet possessed these features beyond all doubt. The results of the runs demonstrated once and for all that the Whippet had an excellent cooling system; a wonderful full force feed lubricating system; a sturdy transmission that is equal to every test demanded of it and sturdy construction that guarantees long life.

Both runs were made with a stock Whippet Coach and in second gear, with newspapermen as the official observers. Miles, 135; time, four hours three minutes, average speed, 33.33 miles per hour.

THE BEARCATS TURN TABLES

MULES ARE "OUT-ROCKNE'D" IN 33-31 GAME.

BATTLE OF RESERVES

Maryville Subs Hold Warrensburg Even. Then Regulars Take Lead And Hold It.

The Bearcats beat the Mules at their own game.

They did it Saturday night on the Northwest Teachers floor, 33 to 31, in one of the most strenuous, nerve-wracking games in the history of College basketball here. The night previous Tad Reid of the Central Teachers used ten men to defeat the local pedagogues 30 to 26; emulating the football tactics of Knute Rockne at Notre Dame by, sending "shock" troops at the beginning of each half to wear out the Bearcat regulars.

But Coach "Shorty" Lawrence opined he had as good men on the bench as did Reid. His opinion was good. In Saturday night's game the teams started the same as usual, with the Maryville regulars opposing the Mule subs. With the score 15 to 8 for Maryville, Tad Reid sent in the varsity, and they rang up eleven consecutive points, then Lawrence began to insert his seconds. In went McKee, Swinford, Iba and Smith, leaving Burks at center.

Half Ends 19-17.

And how they did fight. The Mules had tied the score and then added two more baskets as the Bearcats got one, ending the half 19 to 17. The Warrensburg regulars continued to play in the second half while Coach Lawrence left his team intact as it finished the first half. First, Warrensburg scored. Then McKee got a two-counter. Petre, guard, added to the Mules' count and Swinford got two free throws. The Mules scored again and Swinford got a field basket. Iba tied the score 25-all.

About ten minutes left to play.

Just as the Mules went into the lead again, Lawrence jerked his second string for Hedges, Ungles, Harris and Ferguson. Hedges broke loose to tie the score at 27-all and followed soon with another field basket.

The game was waxing hot. Petre's aim was deadly and he tied the score again. But the Mules became demoralized. The Bearcats were holding possession of the ball. The Mules made inaccurate shots at the basket. It looked like a Bearcat victory.

Lead by 4 Points.

Ungles put the Bearcats in the lead with a field goal and Hedges gave Maryville a four-point lead by a field goal. But Petre cut down the lead to two points with a field basket a few seconds before the game ended.

The box score:

TWO TEAMS IN DEADLOCK FOR M. I. A. A. LEAD

Warrensburg Defeat Here Leaves Bears And Bulldogs Tied.—Cape Beaten But Dangerous.

M. I. A. A. Standings.

| Team | W. | L. | Pct. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Springfield | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Kirksville | 1 | 0 | 1.000 |
| Warrensburg | 3 | 1 | .750 |
| Maryville | 1 | 1 | .500 |
| Cape Girardeau | 0 | 4 | .000 |

Springfield and Kirksville today lead the M. I. A. A. race, having wone one game each and losing none. Warrensburg stands in third place by virtue of three wins and one defeat. Maryville is fourth with a .500 percentage and Cape Girardeau trails, having lost four games.

Four conference games will be played this week. It will be a "make or break" test for Springfield and Warrensburg when the Southwest Teachers play at Warrensburg Thursday and Friday. Springfield looks like the probable winner from comparative scores, having defeated Cape Girardeau 61 to 16, while Warrensburg had a hard tussle with the Indians in their second game.

Maryville goes to Cape Girardeau to play what appears at present as the weakest quintet in the conference. But Coach H. F. Lawrence said only recently the Indians generally "throw a monkey wrench in the machinery," to wreck the hopes of some conference team.

Kirksville is the only team idle in M. I. A. A. games, but plays the Kansas City Life team at Kansas City tonight. The Bulldogs had diffieulty in winning from Cape on Friday night, 33 to 28.

The second game against Warrensburg here Saturday night showed the Bearcats fighting harder for the ball after the tip-off. Burks has yet to face a man to get the tip on him. The game also saw the Bearcats going in under the basket on follow shots, a phase of the game which they failed to work to best advantage in the opening conference game.

THE STORY THUS FAR

When JEFF HARRISON, gambler, is killed in a poker game in Caldwell, Kan., his 13-year-old son, TONY, is taken to the Bar K ranch in the Indian territory by JOE CRAIG, who appoints himself the boy's guardian.

There Tony is welcomed by TITUS MOORE, owner of the Bar K brand, and his little daughter, RITA. Another who has befriended Tony is GORDON W. LILLIE, who later becomes known as PAWNEE BILL when he teaches school at the Indian reservation in Pawnee.

RITA MOORE, his little tomboy daughter.

When Tony is 15, Rita and her mother depart for Virginia and the boy learns for the first time how much he cares for the little red-haired, arrogant miss. Titus Moore, owner of a thoroughbred mare, is challenged to a horse race in Caldwell by CLYDE JONES, owner of a remarkable stallion.

Tony rides Fancy, Moore's mare, and wins with herr. Under the terms of the bet, Jones loses $5000 and his horse, but Moore refuses to accept the horse.

Word is received that DAVID PAYNE, leader of the "Boomers," and chief agitator for the opening of Oklahoma, is dead. Pawnee Bill is one of Payne's sympathizers, and so is Tony, although his benefactor, Titus Moore, opposes the opening with all his might.

CHAPTER XXVII

Enterprising showmen of the day were awakened to the possibilities of the American Indian as a drawing card; especially in the east, where the red man was a rarity and a curiosity.

The Healy and Bigelow company of New Haven and New York, decided to test the box office value of the Indian and augment their already rather elaborate medicine show with a wild west act. Pawnee Bill was commissioned to gather together a large company of Indians and fetch them to Philadelphia. When he arrived in the Pennsylvania metropolis Tony Harrison was with him.

Titus Moore at first had been doubtful about it, but a few words from Craig had converted him.

"All of a sudden he swung right in line with the idea," Tony informed Pawnee Bill. "I don't know what came over him to make him change his mind."

The other smiled. He could explain it very easily, he was thinking, but he chose not to.

Tony's chief regret at leaving the Bar K arose with the necessity of parting with Cherokee, his horse. The son of Black Diamond and Fancy was a beautiful, spirited thing and the boy was his slave. Titus Moore himself had to promise to look after him.

"Don't worry, Tony. I'm as proud of him as you are. The first son-of-a-gun that looks at his cross-eyed I'll personally scalp."

Pawnee Bill's recommendation had obtained for Tony a job as cowboy in the wild west show. The boy was the best horseman in the outfit and he could handle a rope as well as most of them. As for Tony's sponsor, the long-haired Indian interpreter was quite the most picturesque figure, red or white, with the show. He and Tony roomed together and whereever they walked through the streets of Philadelphia people stopped to gaze after the broad-shouldered figures with the flowing mane and the wide hat.

"That's showmanship," he informed the youth, when questioned as to whether it was not embarrassing to be the object of so much curiosity. "I don't mind it and it increases my value to the show."

He had in mind, he said, going into the business for himself some day. "I'm studying costs and trying to profit by my experience. I won't be working for other people very long. If they can make money off me I ought to be able to make it for myself if I keep my eyes open."

That evening Pawnee Bill was not to be found when Tony looked for him after the performance. He waited, for it was their custom to go to a restaurant for something to eat and then walk together through downtown Philadelphia before going to bed.

A ticket seller saw him waiting and called to him. "You're just too late," he laughed. "I saw Pawnee Bill walkin' off with a pretty gal."

"You're sure? He didn't say anything to me about having a date."

"I saw him with my own eyes."

Tony laughed and walked off and promptly forgot about it. Later that night Pawnee Bill explained.

"I met a nice little girl, Tony, a little beauty. She came to the show with some friends and somehow we got to talking and I took her home. I guess I made a fool of myself."

"How's that?"

"Why, her mother and father came in the parlor and talked to me and I didn't know what to talk about. They're Quaker people, I think, and sort of sedate, and they kept looking us me as if I was a curiosity."

Tony laughed. "I thought you didn't mind that sort of thing."

"I don't as a rule, but this was kind of different. Besides, I forgot myself and spit on the floor and the old man sort of raised his eyebrows at me. Of course," he hastened to add before Tony could speak, "I know it isn't right to spit on people's floors in a nice house like that, but I got fussed and there wasn't any cuspidor around and so I let her go without thinking."

"That's sure too bad," Tony commiserated. "I'll just bet you haven't got the nerve to go back again now."

"Is that so?" the other retorted defiantly. "Well she's coming to the show again tomorrow night and I'm walking home with her again. What do you think of that."

"I'm not saying a word. My advice to you is to sit near a window."

The girl's name, it developed, was Mary Emma Manning. "She's just 16, but pretty as a picture. Black hair and brown eyes and—"

"Sure, I know. Well, give me an invitation to the wedding." He grinned, and ducked quickly to avoid one of Pawnee Bill's boots. From the door he called back, "If she's got a good looking sister you might take me along with you. I'm getting right starved for romance 'myself,'" and gathered from Pawnee Bill's retort that he would find a welcome in a hotter climate.

His own thoughts later that night were not so facetious. He couldn't help thinking of Rita, wondering how she looked, what sort of men she was meeting. Of course, this was nothing more than a brief infatuation of Pawnee Bill's. A pretty girl, probably stage-struck . . . A few weeks from now and both would have forgotten it.

Rita, though, was more than that. It was not easy to forget her down on the Bar K when every week brought one of her letters to her father. He thought of something Titus Moore had said when he had returned the previous winter from his visit in Virginia. "You'd hardly know her, Tony, she's not a little girl, any more."

Very likely not, he told himself. Rita was 17 and he had not seen her for two years. His mind grasped eagerly at the thought of taking the train to Washington, only a few hours from Philadelphia, and calling on her at her school. But it was summer, he recollected, and the school would be closed; she would not be there.

The next day he got a letter from Joe Craig. Rita had arrived at the ranch to spend her vacation.

"Her mother's with her," Craig wrote, "and Rita seemed right put out when she learned you had left. She told me to send her regards. She's sure pretty, Tony, and she's fell in love with Cherokee."

The information made him very unhappy and restless. Not to be present when Rita got her first glimpse of Cherokee; not to be there to ask her to ride him and to ride beside her along some of the familiar trails. . .

They left Philadelphia not long afterward and toured through the east. Tony was surprised to learn that Pawnee Bill was exchanging letter with little Mary Manning—or May, as he called her. He twitted him about it, but Pawnee Bill no longer could be embarrassed.

"I expect I'll marry her if I ever get the nerve to ask her," he informed the youth calmly. "And providing, of course, she'll have me. She's the only girl I ever met that I'd want to marry."

Tony with great difficulty overcame a sudden temptation to blurt out his own hopeless story to his friend.

The show closed before the summer's end and they traveled together as far as Wellington. There Pawnee Bill left him, promising him the opportunity of another tour in the fall.

"Probably along the west coast. Buffalo Bill's got a show called the Flying Dutchman, with Jules Keene playing the lead. He thinks he'll want me to bring him some Indians again, and it'll be a nice trip for you. Take care of yourself."

At Caldwell Tony was met by Joe Craig, who had brought another horse with him. "Cherokee being kind of young, I didn't bring him along, Tony. He's not strong enough yet for heavy duty. You'll be just in time to see Rita before she goes back. She's just got a few days more to stay. Tell me about yourself. What kind of a time did you have? Reckon you'll go into the show business?"

"I don't know. It's all right, but it's kind of uncertain. You clean up in one town and don't make expenses in another. What's Rita like? Does she still ride around and get in everybody's way?" He was masking his interest behind a tone of indifference.

Craig shoved back his hat and scratched his head. "Well, yes. She still runs things; in that respect she hasn't changed much."

"Does she talk the same?"

Craig regarded him with an amused stare. "Well, she's picked up a Virginia accent, I guess you'd call it. Sort of soft and lazy like. And she don't say 'ain't' any more. What else do you want to know?"

Tony reddened furiously. "Nothing, I reckon. I—I was just figuring that two years might make a powerful change in a girl and I was curious."

His heart kept pounding against his ribs as they rode along. What would she be like? Would she be the old, carefree, impudent Rita, the Rita that used to issue commands like an imperious little queen? Or would she be another person—reserved, dignified, conscious of her place and of his?

(To be continued)

Rita Moore has changed, Tony learns and it adds nothing to his peace of mind.

Drink Water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Begin Taking Salts

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Always Stiff and Achy?

Too Often This Warns of Sluggish Kidney Action.

LAME? Stiff? Achy? Sure your kidneys are working right? Sluggish kidneys allow waste poisons to remain in the blood and make one languid, tired and achy, with often dull headaches, dizziness and nagging backache. A common warning is scanty or burning secretions.

Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of bodily waste. Users everywhere endorse Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

On a Basis of Mutual Benefits

Russell Conwell, in his biography of John Wanamaker, explains that great American's business success in one paragraph.

"Because he thought of the people first, of their needs, of how he could serve them most helpfully, economically, honestly, and of profit last, they thought of him first when shopping was to be done, and the business grew."

The growth of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a closely parallel case. This Company has put service first and profits last. The needs of the people of the Middle West have been its chief concern. It has thought constantly of how it could serve them most helpfully, honestly and economically.

They in turn have thought first of this Company when in need of petroleum products. More and more they have come to depend upon it. Thus it has grown and is growing.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has proved, as Mr. Wanamaker proved, that successful business is built on a basis of mutual benefits—benefit to the owners of the business—and benefit to the public.

Mr. Wanamaker made money. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) makes money. But in both cases money making represents the smallest part of the achievement.

Service—reaching to all people and all places in the Middle West—the same service for all, whoever they are, wherever they live—service that never fails from day to day and from week to week and from year to year—service that is expanded to meet expanded needs, improved with improved knowledge—that sort of service is the aim and the achievement of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Whether you live in the heart of Chicago or spend your days on a far-away farm, if you are in the Middle West, all the resources of this Company are at your service.

Scientists are at work in its laboratories for you. Engineers and mechanical experts are investigating and testing. Men are drilling wells and driving tank wagons and working in offices. Directors are managing and planning.

Twenty-nine thousand men and women are working at their various tasks, employing the capital of 55,000 stockholders, with one purpose—to make the best products from petroleum it is possible to make and to bring them to you where you need them—at a price which is fair and equitable.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stands first in the hearts of the people of the Middle West because this Company has proved by its far-reaching, unfailing service that their needs are its first concern.

KIDNAPINGS, MURDERS AND DISAPPEARANCES MULTIPLY.

MANY THREATS MADE

Blackmail Letters to Two Wellsville, Mo., Men Believed Prank.—Millionaire's Wife Takes Flight.

(By United Press.)

Violent murders, after kidnapings; ransom letters and mysterious disappearances have become marked throughout the United States in the past month.

The cycle was started with the kidnaping of Marion Parker, Los Angeles banker's daughter. The girl was murdered, her body returned to the father, who had paid a large ransom, and William Edward Hickman arrested. He confessed and will go to trial Wednesday.

At Smith College, Northampton, Mass., Miss Frances St. John Smith disappeared without leaving a trace. A search has been made throughout the East. Her disappearance is similar to that of Alice Corbett from the same school in 1925.

Sentenced for Life.

At Flint, Mich., Dorothy Schneider was kidnaped and her body found a few hours later. Adolph Hotelling was arrested, confessed and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to life imprisonment and within a week after the crime, had started serving his sentence.

Mrs. Walter B. Lashar, wife of a millionaire Bridgeport, Conn. man, is en route to an unnamed southern destination with her infant after three letters demanding $25,000 had been received at the home. The letters threatened an act "that will mean more to you than all your money."

Mayor John McMurty o Wellsville, Mo., received two letters demanding $500 and threatening kidnaping of his daughter, Virginia, in case the money was not given. The girl is a student at Stephens College, Columbia, Missouri, and is under guard.

Borah Asks Curtis Prohibition Stand

Senator Opens Campaign to Determine Whether Presidential Candidates Favor "Dry" Planks.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Senator Borah set out today on his campaign to place all candidates for the Republican presidential nomination on record regarding prohibition, when he sent a public letter to Senator Curtis of Kansas asking his attitude on the question. Curtis is a candidate.

Borah presented four questions seeking to ascertain whether Curtis favored a prohibition plank in the Republican platform. He asked what would be Curtis' attitude toward enforcement if elected; whether he would favor an executive program to enable states to determine alcoholic content of liquor sold within their borders; and whether he would favor repeal of the Volstead Act or the eighteenth amendment.

Curtis has always been considered a dry.

Borah has announced he will address a similar open letter to all candidates for the party nomination.

Hawes Attacks River Report Before Senate

"The Most Murderous Engineering Document I Have Ever Read," Missouri Senator Says.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The Army engineers' report on the Mississippi river was assailed by Senator Hawes, Democrat, Missouri, today at the first flood control hearing before the Senate Commerce Committee.

"The Jadwin report is the most murderous engineering document I have ever read," he declared. This report advocated, among other things, that the states bear part of flood control expense.

Hawes cited details of the report to support his contention that it should not be followed by Congress. He criticized particularly the proposal that a secondary levee be built five miles behind present levees along one stretch of the river in Missouri, flooding the land between levees when the stream is high.

The flood control project should be supervised by a special commission, Hawes said, with army engineers in charge of operations.

Under the plan advocated by administration leaders, the secretary of war could supervise all building

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—All grains rallied from early declines on the Chicago board of trade.

Wheat weakened during the last hour and failed to follow corn's slight advance. Best prices in corn did not hold and final figures barely topped the previous close. Final figures: Wheat ¼ to ½c lower; corn, ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower and oats, ⅛c to ¼c lower.

Provisions closed lower.

Wheat was unsettled all day in a moderately active market. Lower Liverpool cables and weakness in corn sent all futures lower early in the day. Toward mid-session, however, eastern houses began to buy and an unexpectedly large decrease in the visible supply was reported. These factors, with sudden strength reflected from corn rallied all futures. Receipts here were 37 cars and cash wheat declined ¼c.

Corn lost fractionally just after the opening on large receipts and continued fair weather over the belt. During the morning there was little change from the opening figures. Toward mid-session, however, forecasts of rain or snow over the belt were released. Reports from the Argentine indicated stocks of corn were almost exhausted and with prices here very near an export basis, some corn was reported taken for foreign interests this morning. This news started a good rally which regained all losses and added a slight advance. Cash corn was ¾ to 1¼c lower and receipts were very heavy at 404 cars.

Oats were little changed in a dull and featureless market. Receipts totaled 73 cars and cash oats were ¼c lower.

Provisions held around steady.

"Bible Adapted to Every Human Need"

Stories for Childhood, Youth and Adults, the Rev. Guy L. Prather Says in Sunday Sermon.

"The Bible is a single Book with one definite religious aim," the Rev. Guy L. Prather, pastor of the First Baptist Church, said in his sermon yesterday morning on, "The Book Divine."

"It is not science, nor commerce, nor entertainment, nor education, though it refers correctly to history, literature, social customs, and various other spheres of human knowledge. It does present God in all His beauty and glory, his presence and power in material and human affairs, his gradually unfolding plan of salvation that reaches its climax in Jesus Christ," the minister said.

The Reverend Mr. Prather pointed out that the Bible is "adapted to the soul and fits into every need of life; that the Bible has a story for children in the baby Moses and the baby Jesus; that there is a message for youth in Joseph, Daniel and Ruth, in many stirring events, noble sacrifices, tragic deaths, glorious victories. That the Bible satisfies the student, finds fields of study in history, drama, music, philosophy, great leaders, and great world movements that girdle the earth to this day.

"The Bible gives us material views not possible elsewhere," the Reverend Mr. Prather said. In continuing the thought he emphasized the story of creation with its One God supreme; the Hebrew nation, with its mighty influences, prophecies widely circulated and translated into every tongue; the promises of forgiveness.

"The Bible gives us Jesus. This alone would mark it divine. He rules in the Heavens, in the earth, and in human hearts. No assault can dethrone Him." Mr. Prather impressed upon his congregation "In Christ we see His unselfish services, His devotion to truth, His marvelous claims, His wonder powers and great sacrifices.

"We find Him in the church of every city and village and along every highway. We find Him in sorrow, sickness and death. We find Him in our hearts in our boyhood, as we struggle through school, as we seek to do our life's work, as we come to the end of the way. He is the light from Heaven that lights our earthly pathway, that shows us the Father's face, and that guides us out into the larger and fuller life to come."

"Christ Is Supreme Fact of All Life"

Knowledge, Spiritual Contact, Faith and Experience Are Elements, the Rev. W. N. Dewar Says.

"I am determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified," I Cor. 2:2.

This is the text from which the Rev. William N. Dewar, of the First Presbyterian Church, drew the subject of his sermon yesterday morning on "The Supreme Fact of Life."

"This statement by Paul," the minister said, "is not meant as exclusive of all other knowledge. It is not a statment of disparagement, but merely the outpouring of a mind that has arrived at a satisfactory grasp of a fact so supreme that it is sufficient for every demand of life."

The Reverend Mr. Dewar outlined four important phases of human relationship to Christ. First, the supreme fact of knowledge; second, the spiritual Christ through personal contact with Him in His own spirit; third, the supreme fact of faith; and fourth, the supreme fact of experience.

"All knowledge is useful, but there is no knowledge comparable to the knowledge of Christ," Mr. Dewar said. "None so important, none so far reaching in its intellectual, moral and spiritual consequences. He is the supreme fact of knowledge in all the centuries since His birth.

"Books by the millions have kept the presses of the world busy declaring Him to men. The thought of him has engaged the mind of the poet, the seer, the writer, the sculptor, the painter, the musical composer, the theologian, the philosopher, the commercial and industrial expert, the sociologist, the scholar, the statesman, scientist, reformer, labor leader, capitalists, lawyers, and every other rank and file of men. He is the theme of the pulpit and Parliament. We cannot shut him out. He has become the center and circumference of the intellectual life of the world.

"This knowledge is good. But we must go further than the historical fact and come to know Jesus as the supreme fact of life in his spiritual nature. Paul means this. We hear him saying, 'Wherefore we have henceforth known no man after the flesh, even though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet we know Him so no more.' So Paul is seeking the deeper knowledge of the spiritual Christ through personal contact in the realm of his own spirit.

"Jesus is also the supreme fact of faith. Our faith is not centered in the authority of the church, nor in the necessity of the sacraments, nor in the assertions of the creeds, nor in the doctrine of the atonement, nor in the need of rejuvnation of the spirit, nor in the all importance of moral life, but in Jesus Himself.

"Jesus is the supreme factor of experience. Our knowledge of Him and our faith in Him must deepen into an experience that will confirm our knowledge and our faith and establish both on the foundation of righteousness which cannot be shaken."

Woodhull Draws Lessons From Rich Man and Beggar Allegory

The allegory of Lazarus, the poor beggar, and the rich man, Dives, formed the basis of a discussion at the First Methodist Church yesterday morning by the Rev. W. S. Woodhull.

"There are three direct hits on the common ways of men both then and now," the Reverend Mr. Woodhull said.

"First, we are apt to estimate the full circle of a man's life by too small an arc. We think that if he be successful in attaining wealth and power and holding them through a term of years that he is fortunate. We seldom test life by the measure of the eternities. Dives was lucky enough, perhaps, in the fifty or sixty years he lived here, but decidely unfortunate in the centuries that he lived the other side of here. And the reverse is true of Lazarus. It might be a bit helpful if we would all sit down and ask ourselves seriously 'What will these things that I seek so strenuously be worth ten thousand years from now? And what will be the value of these other things that now I am neglecting as of no worth?'

"Second; Jesus was interested in the affairs of this life. He was always keenly conscious of the poor and the sick and sorrowful and the oppressed. His mission was to them. The sin of the Church is the emphasis that we put on other worldliness. Not that we think too much about what lies beyond, but that we are too little concerned about what is immediately at our doors. It is the business of the Church to intelligently and constructively demand better industrial relations, clean politics and international guarantees of peace. The business of the church is to create such an intelligent spirit of fairness and brotherhood applied to all of life as will make the wide-spread destitution and vast individual holdings of property impossible and wars unthinkable.

"Third; Dive's sin was fundamentally materialism. He was in the main concerned with the getting of things. He was so busy taking care of his body that he didn't give his soul a chance. And all the great evils of today can be traced to the same soil of love for things. There they take root and from thence they draw their strength. For illustration, what lies at the root of all this struggle about the enforcement of the Volstead Law and the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution? Nothing other than that some men care more for booze and other men care more for easy money than either care for the laws or the Constitution. Their patriotism flourishes except when it interferes with their bellies or their pocketbooks. And this is only one of the many forms that the sin of materialism takes to deceive the very elect.

"To test life by the long look, to care for the welfare of men here and now more than for money and what money will buy, to hold high ideals above cheap physical satisfaction, these are the truths that appear vividly in the allegory of The Rich Man and The Beggar."
